

Writing Task is my dream job

Every child in the world was dreaming to become an astronaut or a footballer in his childhood. But even after some time the problem of choosing and getting a job was arising. There are so many professions and you can choose what you want. As for me, learning English is not only a hobby, but I would like to connect my job after my life with it, because I like it and I spent much time learning it. It is one of the most important languages in the world, which gives us much opportunities, from searching sites to travelling ^{into} foreign countries. There are some professions where the knowing of English is a must have thing. It is essential you can travel and you get education, or simply to work somewhere in a safe. You can also work in the internet doing different tasks and making sites.

It seems to me that it is really hard to choose a job for your future, but it is never late to find something new in your life. But I know one for sure, you must like your profession and what are you doing not to push a routine from your life.

Hi Miranda

How are things? I'm so sorry I couldn't come to your party. My mum wasn't well so I had to stay and look after my little brother. A New Year's Eve party sounds fantastic! I won't let anything keep me from your next party. I promise I'll be there!

I think any weight loss should be taken gradually. Try to eat lighter meals and don't eat late at night. You could start some gentle exercise like walking and then after a few weeks start power walking and then progress to jogging. I'm sure you'll be okay. Remember to eat right and do a little exercise each day. I'm okay. Since you left I got a summer job at a beach cafe. I work twice a week and I'm really enjoying it plus I earn a bit of money.

When can you come again?

Lots of love, Zara

Task 1. Read the text and choose the correct words from the table below

Dinosaur footprints

Dinosaur footprints are 1... throughout the world in special types of rock. Here's how it happens. If a dinosaur walks along a river 2... made of sand with a good amount of clay mixed in, it 3... deep, clear trackways. Then the sun bakes them 4... The footprints are then gently buried by blown sands, again and again. 5... time the footprint layers harden and became rock deep within 6... Earth. Much later, through movements of the Earth's crust, the layers of rock containing the footprints are pushed back to the surface. Erosion weathers away the rock to 7... the dinosaur tracks.

Trackways tell you all sorts of things about dinosaurs that bones 8.... The distance between footprints can show how fast an animal is walking or running.

Here's a simple experiment to show you what I mean. Next time you are down at the beach, walk along 9... in firm, damp sand to leave a clean set of footprints. Then go back and jog along 10... them. Finally, sprint 11... you can to leave a third trackway. Now look at how far apart each footprint 12.... Not only do your footprints get further apart as you run faster, but your prints get shallower. Only the front part of your foot 13... the ground when you are running at full speed.

Every child in the world was dreaming to become an advanced man or a person in his childhood. But over time we have the problem of finding a career and getting a job worth it.

There are so many professions and you can be almost what you want. For me learning English is not only a hobby, but I would like to connect my job and life with it. It is one of the most important languages in the world, which gives us much opportunities from searching different sides to travelling to foreign countries. There are some jobs where the knowledge of English is a must. Maybe it is a good way to simply become a teacher, but I think it would be great really interesting for me. And as a student you can travel and try to find good values for you to work on. You can work in the internet during all kinds of tasks and making sites. It seems to me that it is really hard to choose a work for your future. In this age, but if you have some ideas to have a career, it will not be a terrible mistake to work.
